    - ii. Stamper says she doesn't think we can but we can check with the municipal attorney.

- iii. Majewski thinks only words are regulated and we should look at other cities and what they regulate. What will our approval process be? What about when someone paints a sign that's not allowed?
- iv. Paluszek asks and Stamper explains current approval process for signs.
- v. Braciszewski says we can't regulate content. Detroit regulates size.
- vi. Habitz is concerned about aesthetics and wants to avoid homemade signs, perhaps regulate letter size, typeface, etc.
- vii. Majewski says design standards would need to be set by the PC in the zoning ordinance.
- viii. Habitz is concerned painted signs will lead to less cohesive design in the city. Majewski says that size limits should address this.

- x. Habitz appreciates the corner lot clarification.
